

Matt Kelsch

Biography

Matt Kelsch is a hydrometeorologist at the University Corporation for Atmospheric Research (UCAR) in Boulder, Colorado. Matt has recorded daily weather since he was 10 years old in his native New York. His Colorado weather record now spans 26 years. He is a volunteer cooperative climate observer for the National Weather Service and the Boulder County, Colorado CoCoRaHS coordinator, and maintains three CoCoRaHS locations in Boulder. Matt is part of a volunteer team that makes monthly water quality measurements as part of the national River Watch program. Matt received his Bachelor of Science degree in meteorology from the State University of New York College at Oswego, and his Master of Science degree in meteorology from the University of Oklahoma.

